BENJAMIN GALÈS

Étudiant à l'école 42

Madam, Sir,

Currently undergoing training at École 42, I am seeking a true first professional experience in the development sector. First, to test myself and enter this world that I am eager to discover and that will bring me new skills and knowledge. Moreover, this experience aligns with the continuation of my training at École 42: the path towards the diploma (RNCP) actively encourages gaining experience in a company through internships, work-study programs, or permanent contracts.

Having earned a literary baccalaureate, I extended my curiosity for words into an attraction for discovering new fields. My journey, which may seem atypical but is nonetheless rich in learning, has enabled me to develop skills that make me operational and especially adaptable as a developer today. My time at École 42 allowed me to familiarize myself with the C and C++ languages, as well as web development (HTML, CSS, JavaScript). This ability to transition from a literary domain to a technical environment demonstrates my curiosity and capacity to adapt to new challenges.

It was my experience as the website manager for Danyberd that led me to start my training at 42. By acquiring and expanding my skills, I have been able to apply them to very real challenges, such as enhancing customer experience by customizing the front end and user interface. However, and this is why I speak of seeking a "true" first professional experience, this was not my primary role, and within the framework of this family business, I could only taste the developer profession in a limited capacity.

I am convinced that my profile can bring a unique perspective to your team, due to my adaptability, curiosity, and above all: my desire. I am determined to face the challenges that your company can offer, which would undoubtedly allow me to maintain my skills, but also, to develop new ones. I would be delighted to discuss my application in more detail during an interview.

Awaiting your response, please accept, Madam, Sir, the expression of my distinguished regards.
